Presidio encampment, and rescinding their previous instructions, jarred them out of their boots, metaphorically speaking, but after talking the matter over with Maj. Charles S. Lincoln, who is in charge of militia affairs in this department, they recognized how much better the present arrangement is.

It means, for instance, that Hawaii instead of having but ten men trained as officers, will have one hundred, that the probability is that the Territory will furnish a full infantry regiment for the ustional army, and that there will be more instructors to put them through the mysteries of the Field Service Regulations, the Infantry Drill Regulations, and to explain the intringence of and much matters as the Goart rental out there will be used in the formation of the Hawaii are sifted out there will be approximately forty-five hundred men available for registration. The outside Islands are expected to furnish about half as many, making the above total. The officers at bendquarters are estimating that fully fifty per cent of these will be eliminated for one reason or another, many of them because of physical disabilities, others because of dependent relatives and others because they are needed where they are in civilian life. This leaves approximately three thousand men for the draft, and if the headquarters officers are correct in the feducatives and others because of they are needed where they are in civilian life.
